

Presents

SOCIOLOGY OF GLOBAL HEALTH AND DEVELOPMENT SYMPOSIUM

DATE & TIME:

MON 1 JULY 2024 @ 9:00 AM - 5:30 PM

LOCATION:

NTU, DRYDEN ENTERPRISE CENTRE

HOST:

NTU GLOBAL PUBLIC HEALTH, IHAP

KEY NOTE CONVERSATION: RETHINKING
GLOBAL PUBLIC HEALTH - PERSPECTIVES
FROM HISTORY AND SOCIOLOGY:
A CONVERSATION BETWEEN
ROBERT DINGWALL AND TOBY GREEN

GUEST SPEAKERS

PROF THOLENE SODI
PROFESSOR OF PSYCHOLOGY,
UNIVERSITY OF LIMPOPO.

PROF DR AMON SIMBA
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF
ENTREPRENEURSHIP AND INNOVATION AT
NOTTINGHAM BUSINESS SCHOOL, UK

ABOUT THIS SEMINAR

A sociological lens on global health has enriched our understanding of how individuals, communities, regional and international organisations interact with health policies, outcomes, and inequities. However, along with discussions related to the multiple determinants of health, there is a demand for a shared understanding concerning social justice issues and inequalities across different categories. Thus, the symposium seeks to further the ongoing knowledge exchange between global partners concerning the sociology of health and development, develop a shared understanding on applying social theories to address health issues, and contribute to a wider understanding of the interrelation between health, development, and social innovation.

SYMPOSIUM FEE STRUCTURE

Category	Amount (£)
PGR students (national)	30.00
Academic staff	50.00
Other participants (local authorities/NGOs)	50.00
Third sector/Charities	30.00
PGR students Overseas (online)	20.00

NOTE:

- Bursaries are available for Post Graduate Researchers (PGRs) whose abstracts are accepted. If you would like to apply for the bursary, please submit a paragraph in your abstract submission stating your need and interest.
- Benefits of attending the symposium include meeting editors of leading sociological journals and publication opportunities in leading sociological journals.

THIS SYMPOSIUM IS SUPPORTED BY FUNDING FROM THE FOUNDATION FOR THE
SOCIOLOGY OF HEALTH AND ILLNESS (FSHI)

CLICK THIS LINK → PAY HERE TO MAKE PAYMENT

CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

The Symposium is currently accepting abstracts focused on applying social theories to address health issues and welcomes abstracts focusing on one or more of the following themes below by 20th June 2024:

- The importance of bottom-up community-based health for future health resilience through a pre- and post-colonial lens.
- Knowledge translation: whose knowledge counts?
- Is there a role for social innovation, entrepreneurship and wellbeing in SGHD
- Using Social Theory in Global Health and Development.

As this is an interdisciplinary symposium, you can still submit an abstract if it is outside of the four themes.

PLEASE USE THIS LINK: HTTPS://FORMS.GLE/KYWY8YDXNV6NS4F59
TO SUBMIT AND ACCESS FURTHER DETAILS ON THE CALL FOR ABSTRACT