

NLS Legal Advice Centre Seminars/Webinars

Terms and Conditions

1. These Terms and Conditions apply to all those individuals, companies or organisations attending any seminars or webinars delivered by NLS Legal Advice Centre.
2. The session is presented by Nottingham Law School Legal Advice Centre, a law firm authorised and regulated by the Solicitors Regulation Authority. The session leader is responsible for its content and the views shared are her or his own views. The session leader will be assisted by a number of NLS Legal Advice Centre student volunteers.
3. The session is a legal education resource, it does not constitute legal advice and is not a substitute for taking legal advice about a particular case. When asking a question, please do not provide any confidential information to us, including any details that might identify a matter or parties to it. Questions should be general about the law and/or practice.
4. The content of the session is non-specific, taking the form of general comments on a particular area of law. Those comments are subjective and reflect the session leader's understanding of the law at the time. The information may quickly become outdated.
5. If you rely on the content of the session you do so at your own risk.
6. Should you require legal advice about your particular circumstances or in a particular case, you can make an enquiry to NLS Legal Advice Centre by completing the online form that can be found at the following link: <https://www.ntu.ac.uk/forms/legal-advice-enquiry-form> or by sending an email to: nls.legaladvicecentre@ntu.ac.uk
7. The session leader and student volunteers conducting and presenting at the session do not accept any liability for any errors or omissions arising either:
 - a) in the content of the initial presentation, or
 - b) in responses to questions about that presentation, or
 - c) within any legal educational materials made available to participants.
