Clinton Global Initiative University Could you be a HE student leader?

CGI U are looking for UG and PG students who are committed to take action in their community to address pressing challenges.

The Clinton Global Initiative University is looking for students who are motivated to make a positive change in the areas of education, environment, climate change, peace, human rights, poverty alleviation, and public health.

Students accepted into CGI U will participate in a year-round program that includes access to high-touch mentorship; a social impact curriculum; funding streams; and student engagement events, including the CGI U 2021 virtual annual meeting hosted by Howard University.

How to apply

You may only submit one Commitment to Action – applications will be reviewed by the CGI U Selection Committee. Your Commitment to Action should demonstrate the motivation to tackle specific challenges, the capacity to develop leadership skills, and a dedication to CGI U's year-long programme.
