

Professor Malcolm Forster was formerly a partner in the international commercial law firm Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer, and remains a consultant with the firm. He has also acted as a Visiting Professor of International Law at University College London and is a former Visiting Fellow at the British Institute of International and Comparative Law (BIICL). He has acted as a specialist consultant on legal matters for a wide range of international organisations.