

Dear Future Student

I chose NTU mainly because of their dedication to international students and the welcoming support they offered throughout my application. I still remember when I made a mistake in my form; I emailed them, and they replied right away, which honestly felt great and very reassuring. NTU has also been awarded multiple accolades for student satisfaction, proving their commitment to supporting students. It's also worth mentioning that I met one of the university representatives back in my home country, and they supported me throughout the process, which made me feel even more confident about choosing NTU.

Coming to NTU from my home country wasn't easy on paper; the reality, however, was far easier and clearer. The structured guidance they provide makes the whole process manageable. My golden piece of advice is to arrive well before the starting date. Begin by learning the main routes to the university, visit the campus, and get familiar with your surroundings. Afterwards, start exploring the city, learn a new street each day.

In terms of hidden gems at the university, the Global Lounge is one of the best places to meet people from all backgrounds. Whether you will be based in the City Campus or Clifton Campus, each location has its own Global Lounge designed to help students connect. Additionally, check out the Nottingham Students' Union website, browse the societies, and find groups that match your interests. It's one of the easiest ways to set yourself apart and meet people who share your passions.

Settling into Nottingham was easier than I expected. The city is diverse, full of students, and genuinely student-friendly. Making friends during my studies has been exciting, especially meeting people from different backgrounds. When it comes to my course, the teaching methods have helped me develop both my academic skills and my soft skills, taking them to the next level. NTU also provides plenty of events throughout the term, from learning and communication workshops to career-focused sessions. They genuinely, in other words, care about preparing students to tackle real challenges in the job market.

I highly recommend all prospective students pace themselves and stay curious. Ask questions, and don't be shy about challenging your own ideas that's where the real learning magic happens. Getting to know your professors and classmates early is a game-changer; those relationships will carry you through the tougher modules effectively. Finally, don't wait for motivation to appear: Build small routines, stay organized, treat every semester as a fresh start, and be proud that you're studying in such an advanced environment.

Warm regards,
