What can you do with an Extended Diploma in Horse Management?

Whether you're an experienced rider or a novice, the BTEC Level Three Extended Diploma in Horse Management is a great starting point for turning a passion for horses into a lifelong career in roles such as:

- farrier;
- groom;
- riding instructor or coach;
- working on a commercial yard; or
- feed sales representative.

Our graduates have gone on to work for:

- professional riders such as Billy Twomey and Michael Whittaker;
- British Dressage; and
- the Defence Animal Centre.

Tom Reilly; producer, seller and rider of showjumping horses

"While I was studying at Brackenhurst I was given the opportunity to take a week's work experience at Billy Twomey's international showjumping yard. It gave me the opportunity to use the skills I had learnt at college in a professional workplace. After completing my work placement I was offered a full-time job with Billy, where I stayed for around two years before carrying on my career as a rider. I am now producing and selling showjumping horses for top-level riders and competitions. I could not have done this without the help and support that Brackenhurst gave me in my time there – the experience has been invaluable."

Evie Llwellyn-Smith, progressed to BSc (Hons) Equine Sports Science

"I am currently a student at Brackenhurst studying Equine Sports Science. Prior to this I was on the Further Education Horse Management course and graduated with a DDD grade, which is equivalent to 3 A*s at A-level. During my time on the Horse Management course, I completed a work experience module where I went on one week's placement for each year of the course, and this gave me the valuable experience within the industry that so many jobs demand today. My first work experience led to me obtaining a role starting young horses at a dressage yard, which I was able to do around my time studying on the course. It has set me up with valuable skills and understanding in order to progress onto higher education and the equine industry. I would wholeheartedly recommend the further education courses at Brackenhurst Campus!"
